

Visas

Are you going to be travelling in and out?

If you intend to do some travelling overseas then it is important to choose the right visa that allows multiple entry. With a visit visa for example; if you decide to leave on a visit visa like the 211A Visa for a weekend getaway to Singapore or the like then you would have to start the entire visa process all over again.

Immigration clearly states the cost of applying for a visa directly with them on their website. This price is substantially lower than the prices quoted by agents, however, their preferred avenue is via a reputable agent, which will be far quicker and free of additional complications.

Most visitor visas strictly do not allow you to work and therefore if you intend to do work of any kind then it's important to get the correct visa.

"Be sure to use a recognised Visa agent"

Contravention of visa policies could lead to deportation and a two-year ban on returning to Indonesia so it's important to get the right visa to suit your circumstances and ensure you select a trustworthy and reputable visa agent.
